PROFILE

Software Developer focused on building practical, scalable web applications.
I work mainly with JavaScript, Node.js, and modern frontend tools, with a strong interest in full-stack development and SaaS products. I enjoy turning ideas into real, usable solutions, and I care about clean code, performance, and user experience.
I come from a non-traditional background, which helped me build strong self-learning skills, problem-solving ability, and persistence. I'm constantly improving my technical skills, working on real projects, and aiming to grow within a professional development team where I can add value and keep learning.
